5. Cookies, Analytics, and Advertising

We and our third-party providers use cookies, pixels tags, and other similar mechanisms to automatically collect information about browsing activity, device information, and other similar usage information about your use of our Services. We use this information to, for example, analyze and understand how users access, use, and interact with our Services, as well to identify and resolve bugs and errors in our Services and to secure, protect, optimize, and improve the performance of our Services, as well as for marketing and advertising purposes, analytics purposes, and to personalize content in our Services.

Cookies. Cookies are alphanumeric identifiers that we transfer to your device through your web browser for record-keeping purposes. Some cookies allow us to make it easier for you to navigate our Services, while others are used to enable a faster log-in process, support the security and performance of the Services, or allow us to track activity and usage data within the Services.

Pixel Tags. Pixel tags (sometime called web beacons or clear GIFs) are tiny graphics with a unique identifier that are similar in function to cookies. While cookies are stored locally on your device, pixel tags are embedded invisibly within web pages and online content. We may use these, in connection with our Services, to, among other things, track the activities of visitors and users, help us manage content, and compile usage statistics. We may also use these in HTML emails we send, to help us track email response rates, identify when our emails are viewed, and track whether our emails are forwarded.

Log Files. Most browsers submit certain information, such as your IP address, device type, screen resolution, operating system version, and internet browser type and version. This information is gathered automatically and stored in log files.

Third-Party Analytics. We use third-party tools, such as Google Analytics, which are operated by third-party companies. These third-party analytics companies may collect usage data (using cookies, pixels, and/or similar tools) about our Services in order to provide us with reports and metrics that help us to evaluate usage of our Services and improve performance and visitor and user experiences. To learn more about Google's privacy practices, please review the Google Privacy Policy at <https://policies.google.com/technologies/partner-sites>. You can also download the Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on to prevent their data from being used by Google Analytics at <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>.

Cross-Device Tracking. We and our providers may use the information that we collect about you within our Services and on other third-party sites and services to help us and these third parties to identify other devices that you use (e.g., a mobile phone, tablet, other computer, etc.).

Targeted Advertising. We work with third parties, such as ad networks, analytics providers, marketing partners and others (collectively, “third-party ad companies”) to personalize content and display advertising within our Services, as well as to manage our advertising on third-party sites. We and these third-party ad companies may use cookies, pixels tags, and other tools to collect usage and browsing activity information within our Services (as well as on third-party sites and services), as well as IP address, location information, unique ID, cookie and advertising IDs, and other identifiers. We and these third-party ad companies use this information to provide you with more relevant ads and content within our Services and on third-party sites, and to evaluate the success of such ads and content.

Custom Lists and Matching. We may disclose or make available certain customer list information (such as your name and email address) with third parties so that we can better target ads and content to you and others with similar interests, within these third-party services. These third parties use the personal information we provide to help us target ads and to enforce their terms, but we do not permit them to use or disclose the data we submit with other third-party advertisers.

6. Your Privacy Choices

We make available several ways for you to manage your privacy choices related to your personal information, including preferences regarding cookies, advertising, and whether you want to receive marketing and promotional emails from us. Some privacy choices we provide may be browser or device specific, which means that you would need to set the preference for each browser and device you use to access our Services.

Cookie Settings. To prevent cookies from tracking your activity on our Website or visits across multiple websites, you can set your browser to block certain cookies or notify you when a cookie is set. You can also delete cookies. The “Help” portion of the toolbar on most browsers will tell you how to prevent your device from accepting new cookies, how to have the browser notify you when you receive a new cookie, or how to delete cookies. Visitors to our Site who disable cookies will be able to browse the Website, but some features may not function. You can also review or change your preferences for targeting cookies and tags on our Website by adjusting your cookie settings at <https://www.borgwarner.com/legal/cookies>.

Industry Ad Choice Programs. You can also control how participating third-party ad companies use the information that they collect about your visits to our websites and use of our mobile applications, and those of third parties, in order to display more relevant targeted advertising to you. If you are in the US, you can obtain more information and opt out of receiving targeted ads from participating third-party ad networks at aboutads.info/choices (Digital Advertising Alliance). Please note that opting out of participating ad networks does not opt you out of being served advertising. You may continue to receive generic or “contextual” ads on our Services. You may also continue to receive targeted ads on other websites, from companies that do not participate in the above programs.

Browser Signals. To the extent required by applicable law, if our Website detects that your browser is transmitting a “global privacy control”—or GPC— signal, we will apply that to opt that browser on your device out of targeting cookies on our Website. If you come to our Website from a different device or from a different browser on the same device, you will need to apply GPC for that browser and/or device as well. More information about GPC is available at <https://globalprivacycontrol.org/>.

Marketing Communications. You can opt out of receiving marketing emails from us by using the unsubscribe feature in any such email we send you.
